Memorial of the Prison Association and th Society for the Improvement of the Con-

Blackwell's Island is a reproach to the City and to finement, generally too brief to teach habits of productive industry. Yet making a liberal allowance for this consideration, and having in view the fact that in all our State Prisons where labor is properly directed an average of 23 to 25 cents a day for each convict is produced, the Committee are fain to believe that it is not extravagant to calculate that the vagrants can be made to produce over and above the labor that shall be devoted to their own supply, an average of 125 cents a day for each individual.

to their own supply, an average of 122 cents a day for each individual.

More than double this is constantly attained in our State Prisons, and why may not our expectations of doing half as well, be realized? If they should be, in this respect alone, a saving of near $40,000 a year would be effected; and the Committee are persuaded, should their application prove successful, that they can suggest a measure more equitable than general taxation, which would in the end relieve the City Treasury from the greater part if not from the whole of the residue of this expense.

would in the end relieve the City Treasury from the greater part if not from the whole of the residue of this expense.

Relying upon the truth of these statements, and having in view the fact, which all experience has demonstrated, that such institutions can be fer better managed by private associations than by public authorities the Committee invite the attention of the Common Council to that provision of their act of incorporation by which the Prison Association is authorized to "establish a Work bouse in the City for the reception of vagrants and disorderly persons," and is empowered to keep detain, employ and govern them, and they solieit from the Common Council the means of exerying into effect the benevo isent intent ons of the Legislature.

By reference to the accompanying documents it will be seen that a large increase to the number of officers is proposed. The Committee intended in their estimates to take the outside of what would probably be required. The laton of the prisoners to be productive must be performed in common. To prevent intercourse between them during their hours of labor and to see that they perform tstifutuless. But that is not all the duty which it is proposed to devolve on the several keepers. They are also to be moral teachers, and to do that duty, wisely and well, they must become acquainted with the characters and dispositions of the persons under their charge. All experience has shown that the latithil performance of these duties, and a population undergoing such constant change, would forbid that one keeper should have charge of more than 20 or 25 prisoners.

In this manner and in other respects, as will be seen.

stant change, would forbid that one keeper should have charge of more than 20 or 25 prisoners.

In this manner and in other respects, as will be seen in those papers, the Executive Committee have prepared and provided for moral instruction for the prisoners, and they regard this as an essential feature of their plan. Wherever it has been introduced into prisons it has been attended with the happiest results. In Houses of Retuge for Juvenile Delinquents it has been in successful operation many years. In prisons for adults it has been introduced much more sparingly, and at later periods, but still with beneficial effects.

It will be seen that of 662 vagrants in the Penttentiary at our examination in June last. It were under the age of 20 and 469 under the age of 30 years, and that proportion varies little in the course of the year so that most of them are of an age which promises good fruit from judicious and careful cultivation; and when it shall be remipped the advantage of moral culture—that many of Seem have never learned any trade by which to obtain a honest livelihood, and but few of them have ever been taught oven the temporal advantages of a varietous is it with a solid in the object. been taught even the temporal advantages of a virtuous le, it will readily be felt that the hope of working much rood among a class now abandoned by seciety to the in salgence of every evil passion, or to the destroying in-sance of corrupt association is not entirely without fundation.

Sundation.

To erect and conduct a prison which shall prevent the mutual contamination of prisoners, which by its own labor shall relieve the honest part of the community from the burden of its support, and which shall bring to bear typon a neglected and degraded portion of our population every practicable appliance for education and more a reform, are the ends which the Prison Association now proposes to itself.

a retorm, are the ends which the Prison Association how proposes to itself.

Without presuming to dictate the action of the Common Council, the Committee beg leave, nevertheless, respectfully to remind them, that Blackwell's Island has long been and probably long will be devoted to the purpose of a penal establishment, and that many advantages must result from concentrating all our institutions of that character upon a spot naturally so central and so secluded.

Already great injury has grown out of the location of the Lunaut easylum on the Island produced by the trouds of visitors which it attracts, thus relaxing the discipline of the Penttentiary, and converting the Island from a place of the production of the control of the production of the pr place of punishment into a show garden, to water all are invited to resort.

This evil will be greatly augmented by locating the Aim-House there, while the distinction between the poor and the victous will thereby be still farther broken down, and the Island will, inovitably, in the end, be are distincted by the virtuous and are invited to resort.

MISSOURI LEGISLATURE—We learn from Jefferson, that C. F. Jackson of Howard county, was elected Speaker of the House; that Mr. Massie, formerly a Member of the Scnate, was probably elected Clerk, and that there were a good many candidates for the other offices of the House. In the Senate, Mr. Basker, a Clerk at the late session, was the most prominent candidate for Secretary, though there were opposition to him.
